STARK BATTLE FOR PROHIBITION

STARK BATTLE FOR BROAD ST. FIRE

Gas Masks Used in Fight to Hold the Flames in Three Floors; $20,000 Loss

Wearing gas masks, firemen today fought a three-alarm fire of suspicious origin that swept up through three floors of the six-story brick building at 67 Broad st., in the heart of the business section.

The third fire in the building within a month, according to officials, the blaze started in the basement, and with the arrival of apparatus was roaring through the building.

The firemen managed to confine the flames to the first three floors, damage being estimated at $20,000.

While responding to the alarm the truck of Protective Company 2A of Appleton st., was in collision with elevated bus at Street and Washington sta. There were no passengers in the bus and damage was slight.

The blaze was discovered by Patrolman James J. McWeney of Milk st. station who gave the alarm. A second alarm was issued on the arrival of Chief Senoat and Chief followed, but the fire was extinguished in short order.

The first floor is occupied by the rubber shop of J. C. Cresson and the High-Grade Shoe Repairing Co. The second and third floors are occupied by Herbert A. Hoyer, electrician. The fifth floor is occupied by the Hub Sheet Iron Works. Earlier reports that the building, 50 Broad st. was a warehouse were erroneous.

New Effort Made to Rescue Kip's Party

Las Vegas, Nev., Jan. 13 (NBS)—Defeated in their first attempt to reach the snow-bound mountain camp of Leonard Kip Rhinelanders son of a wealthy New York family, a rescue party today planned to set out on snowshoes to family much-needed supplies to Rhinelanders and his two companions.

N. W. Caldwell, 32-year-old resident of the Charleston camp, had reached there with a story that he had been in need of food and supplies. He had been told by Pat Rooney, one of Rhinelanders' companions, who was mushed through the terrible mountain blizzard to borrow a pair of bacon.

Vassar Girl to Wed Francis L. Barton

The engagement of Miss Elizabeth Harris Vassar, 20, to Francis L. Barton, Harvard, was announced today by the parents of the bride-to-be, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Jefferson Harris of Scarsdale, N. Y.

Miss Vassar is a member of the Yale University school of nursing, Barton who is the son of Mrs. Frederick Vassar, of Boston and New York, rowed on the varsity crew at Yale. He was a member of the A. D. Club. The wedding will take place in March.

FOOLS DEATH IN 'CYCLE PLANE'

Concord, N. H., Jan. 13 (AP)—Leo Tremblay, 25, escaped injury when his home-made motorcycle engine powered airplane was wrecked when the machine's motor went in dead over Long Pond while at an altitude of 90 feet.

Tremblay continued to clear trails through the forest, but the craft collided with a tree.

The youth had been granted a license, only the previous night after his craft had previously been grounded because of his failure to conform to federal requirements.

Mrs. Benedict, Noted Blind Singer, Dead

Concord, N. H., Jan. 13 (AP)—Mrs. Gladys Fogg Benedict, widow of a well-known New England and New York state as a contralto soprano, died here today.

Mrs. Benedict, although stricken with blindness at the age of 13, developed her musical ability by singing concerts and recitals of classical music. Her work had been praised by Melba and Sbrinchi.

Youth Is Killed as Skidding Car Upsets

Edgartown, Jan. 13 (AP)—Henry P. Ryan, 21, of Fall River, was killed today when his automobile skidded and turned over after he was returning from a shooting trip.

He leaves his mother, the widow of the late George B. Ryan, and a brother, John.

Gives Divorced Wife 'Good Will' Kiss

In the course of a contested divorce hearing brought in Norfolk district court today by Mrs. Elizabeth Sheehan against Michael Sheehan the wife was kissed by the man to show he had "no hard feelings against her."

This affectionate demonstration was not noticed by Judge McCool, who was conferring with two attorneys on the amount of alimony. The man had offered no defense to the charge by his wife that he "often drank two quarts of Italian wine in one night."

The woman won custody of their child and alimony of a week for the support of their seven-year-old daughter. The divorced couple were married in Middleboro in 1920.

NURSE LOSES WEALTH IN WILL CASE

Lufkin's Secretary is Also Cut Off in Settlement Agreed by Sister

Mrs. Eva Rebecca Walker of Braintree, nurse of John W. Lufkin, aged inventor, whose marriage to him was prevented, loses a bequest of $20,000 through a revision of the will agreed on today following a conference before Judge Prest in Probate Court.

Mrs. Thelma Croswell, secretary of Lufkin for 11 years; Henry P. Biden, vice-president of the United States Trust Company, and the trust company itself, who were to receive one-fourth the residue of the $900,000 estate, were also eliminated from the new will.

The settlement was agreed to in the contest brought by Miss Elizabeth Lufkin of Squantum, sister of the testator.

The trust company, in a statement, disclaimed any right in the estate. The statement added that Biden in his dealings with the testator, though Lufkin was a sane man, had no other officer of the bank had any knowledge of the transaction. No other officer of the bank had any knowledge of the transaction.

The following public bequests of $25,000 each will now vest: Morgan Memorial School, and the Young Women's Christian Association. The New England Home for the Aged and Dumb gets $15,000. The Squantum Athletic Club $10,000.

The bequest of $2500 amounting in all to $32,500 are to be paid to relatives of the deceased wife of the testator, living in Bethel and Livermore Falls, and to others residing in Hyde Park, Margaret Walsh, Bridget McCann, Jerry Sheehan and Henry Nelson, all employees of the hotel Brunswick where Lufkin lived, will each receive $2500.

Despondent Father Kills Son, 3, and Self

Dallas, Tex., Jan. 13 (AP)—While a photograph crossed a hallway a few feet from the father, Adam, 28, slashed the throats of himself and his 3-year-old son, Billy, at the home of his sister here. Both died in an ambulance.

An inquest indicated Adam was depressed by an estrangement from his wife.

New York, Jan. 13 (AP)—More than 100 society girls are looking for jobs so the Junior League has started an employment bureau for members.

35 PERSH IN BRITISH STORM

London, Jan. 13 (AP)—Thirty-five persons lost their lives in a terrific storm that swept England, 23 of the victims being members of the crew of H. M. S. Hux St. George, which sank 30 miles north of Uthman Light.

Only five men were rescued from the 42-ton vessel which was en route to Gibraltar for service with the Atlantic fleet.

There were at least 12 deaths on land where the wind at places reached a velocity of more than a hundred miles an hour.

On all sides today could be seen the havoc which the storm wrought. Trees were blown down, roofs stripped and damaged, houses in some cases almost demolished, and vehicles half wrecked along side of roads.

There was expressed that the scope of the calamity may not yet have been revealed entirely, as further reports of damage trickled in steadily.

The weather bureau said another high gale was approaching from the Atlantic and an early renewal of the stormy weather might be expected.

Alexander Osborn's Wife Seeks Divorce

Reno, Nev., Jan. 13 (AP)—Alexander Perry Osborn, son of Dr. Henry Fairfield Osborn, head of the American Museum of Natural History, was sued for divorce today by Anne Steele Osborn, former district leader in Baltimore and New York. The couple were married in Baltimore in 1913 and have four children.

The papers in the case were filed today. Osborn once was guardian for Alice Mabel Astor, now the wife of the late George O'Brien.

2 Missing in Shoe Plant Fire in N. H.

Alton, N. H., Jan. 13 (AP)—Two employees of the Noxall Shoe Co. were missing today as fire destroyed the company's factory. They are Mrs. Oscar Davis, bookkeeper, and Frank Young. Neither could be located after the building collapsed.

The fire was spreading to nearby buildings and assistance of the Lenois and Dover fire departments was called through Eli Adams, telephone operator, who remained at her post in an adjoining building.

DISREGARD OF LAW

To reach conclusions of any value we must go into deep questions of public opinion and the criminal law. We must look into the several factors in the attitude of the people, generally and in particular in the attitude of the law enforcement agencies and regulations affecting their conduct.

Curley Asks 2 Million to Aid Jobless Here

Orders calling for expenditure of $2,275,000 were sent by Mayor Curley today to the City Council, and in connection therewith he Mayor revealed a plan for giving immediate relief to the building trades and employment to heads of families.

The mayor asked for appropriation of $22,000 toward development of a municipal golf course on land now owned by the city and the Arnold Arboretum, and he explained that if this appropriation was promptly passed, he would be able to give work to unemployed families.

He asked also for permission to spend $300,000 out of a surplus in the municipal printing department with which he plans to build a new plant immediately if the permission is granted, thus providing work for men in the building trades.

The council members were told that the printing department has a surplus of $300,000.

PROHIBITION PUT UP TO CONGRESS

Washington, Jan. 13 (AP)—Three days before the tenth anniversary of prohibition, President Hoover today submitted to Congress an array of opinions and recommendations for strengthening enforcement which brought that question into even greater relief than any of the recent controversies that have surrounded it.

In the main these recommendations, prepared by the Law Enforcement Commission, Attorney General Mitchell and Secretary Mellon, were:

Reorganization of the Federal court structure so as to give relief from congestion.

Consolidation of responsibility in detection and prosecution of prohibited violations.

Consolidation of the various agencies engaged in prevention of smuggling of liquor, narcotics, other merchandise and alien over the American frontier.

Provision of adequate court and law enforcement facilities.

Expansion of Federal prison and reorganization of parole and probation.

Adjustment of the burden of enforcement between the federal and state agencies and the enactment of laws to give state, municipal and municipal officers authority to seize any vehicle found transporting liquor in violation of the law.

Submitting these recommendations the President said that "while some sections of the American people may disagree upon the merits of the subject, the President said, the department of justice and treasury department unite in the conclusion that increasing enforcement of federal criminal laws over the past 20 years, as to which the half of the total arrests, has finally culminated in a burden upon the federal courts of a character for which they are ill-designed and in many cases entirely beyond their capacity."

The result is to delay civil cases and of even more importance the defeat of both justice and law enforcement. Moreover, experience shows division of authority, responsibility and lack of fundamental organization in federal enforcement agencies and ultimate results in ineffective action."

The Enforcement Commission, in this, its first and preliminary report, reserved judgment as to the ultimate effect of such suggestions.

On no other grounds than to give the law a fair trial," it said, "the President's Commission has been faced with the most difficult and, in some respects, the most important task of its life. It has been asked to make a study of the whole question, securing information from the responsible officers of the Government and from private reports, as well as from hearings before committees of Congress, before embarking upon public hearings."

While we are not ready to make a final report on the subject we have reached certain conclusions which we are transmitting to you with this communication. The extent and complexity of the problem presented by reference to a few outstanding facts.

A to observe: It is impossible wholly to set off observance of the prohibition act from the large question of the views and habits of the American people with respect to private judgment as to statutes and regulations affecting their conduct.

On the enforcement side, the commission directed attention to the statutes and regulations affecting the American people with respect to private judgment as to statutes and regulations affecting their conduct.

London, Jan. 13.—Learn from your enemies!

That is what Lenin preached—and that is the story of Russia.

Today Soviet Russia is being Americanized, so that the cat can win the world from America. She is learning from her enemies.

It is the greatest story in the world. It is the greatest story of the century—greater than the World War—the passing of half the monarchies of Europe—greater than the death of 10 million men and the destruction of five hundred billion dollars worth of property.

One who writes of Russia today today is writing history. It is a future history—the future that will be weighed and told in terms of the past and the present.

America has caught the imagination of Russia; the efficiency of our machine age, our mechanization and industrialization has captured the mind of every Russian.

In this great sprawling land that stretches over one-sixth of the face of the globe.

The dullest peasant in the most backward "dark village" in Russia has heard the hum of the American machine, brought to his ears by the magic waves of ideas that have crossed international boundaries or respect no international barriers.

"HAY ON AMERICA!"

It is America's day in Russia, "Hay on America" is the new slogan—"Hay on America!"

There then is "Catch up with us, America!"

And then the third: "Kato Kago?"—Which one?—Who will win?

England, France and Germany are all forgotten in the new wave of American ideas that is sweeping over Soviet land.

In a white shirt: "Dressed like an American," he is demanded in half-savvy.

Today the Soviet Union is half-American.

Between five and ten million dollars worth of American engineering brains—brought them to the source and importing them just for their import $150,000,000 worth of crawler tractors and motor cars and electric equipment and machines of a thousand and one kinds.

The head of a great government department said to me in Moscow: "America can do a billion dollars' worth of business with Russia during the next four years—if our country could only get together. There is a whole new nation to be built up and we want America to do it."

For instance, Moscow is planning on a subway at an initial expense of $100,000,000. We have made a $20,000,000 contract with Ford; $25,000,000 contract with the General Electric Co. Only this month we have signed an agreement with the MacDonell engineering Co. of Chicago to supervise the building of $100,000,000 worth of grain elevators, flour mills, cement plants, etc.

of the devil loose in the world. For to understand this vast Russian scene one must accept the fact that the power and driving force of this communistic government and ideal is the power and force of a grand religion. Whether we like it or not this is true, and it is absolutely necessary to grasp this great truth.

Communistic youth are today young priests of this new militant faith. They have the look in their eyes. They fear nothing. They will gladly sacrifice their lives, their future, their all, for their dream of a new, classless, moneyless world, where all men are the same; where there are no distinctions of any kind; where white and brown and yellow and black are brothers and equals.

They dream of building a great new world that will be better than America can build.

So it is that Russia and America struggle for the world—for the very soul of the world.

It is a strange new way—a bloodless war. It is not for trade, nor territories, nor any of the old ideas of victory and conquest that the empires of the past fought for. It is a silent war of ideas struggling against each other for the heart

South Dadebury, N. H., Jan. 13 (AP)—A search organized by selectmen of this town was being conducted today for Fred Fisher, 70, missing since Saturday. Presumably alive. Yesterday he failed to appear at Union Church, of which he is janitor.

Fisher, an elderly and well-known man, was found on a wood road. It was believed he set out to cut wood.

Attacks Radio Corp. for Rate Charges

Washington, Jan. 13 (AP)—An attack upon the Radio Corporation of America for a reported attempt to charge high rates for use of its wireless equipment was made today before the Senate interstate commerce committee by Joseph P. Pierson of Chicago, president of Press Wireless, Inc.

Washington, Jan. 13 (AP)—The case of Gladys Mary Parks, former cabaret entertainer and saleswoman, charged with the murder of her wards Dorothy and Timothy Rogers, aged four and two respectively, was on the docket of the Supreme Court today for trial before Justice Frank T. Lloyd.

All of today and the early part of Tuesday will be consumed in selecting a jury.

It was indicated the 36-year-old defendant would not take the witness stand in her own defense, but that probably two politicians, said to have known the woman when she was a cabaret entertainer in Atlantic City, would be called as witnesses for the State.

Prosecutor Clifford A. Baldwin said the State expected to show that Miss Parks killed the two children who had been left in her care by their father, Alan Rogers of Woodbury, N. J.

"We will demand the death penalty," Baldwin added, "because Parks' new story, as quoted by Newark police, to whom she surrendered voluntarily, was a mere alleged confession by a husband."

WARNER WILL KEEP OFFICE

Says Art Commission Cannot Ban Temporary Showing of Pillsbury Figure

"I do not need the permission of the art commission to place my chest in my office, not even a picture of the commission itself if I had one."

This is the comment of Atty.-Gen. Joseph E. Warner in discussing the "controversy" said to be developing between him and the commission over placing in his office a statue of Albert E. Pillsbury, former attorney-general.

In the first place, explained Mr. Warner, "there is no such controversy" regarding the statue. "This statue has been here since last summer and is as white as the snow on the State House roof."

The attorney-general explained the law, which clearly gives authority to the art commission to pass upon statues that are to become the permanent property of the Commonwealth, but does not cover any personal affairs.

"If this statue is ever offered to the Commonwealth," continued Mr. Warner, then, of course, it would be up to the art commission. Since I showed the statue to be placed only temporarily and as a favor to the artist John Francis Lavelle, the matter obviously is not the concern of the art commission or anyone else."

L. H. Fries, chief clerk of the department, served under Mr. Pillsbury when he was attorney-general in 1901-1904.

He is a highly good status of him," was his comment.

DR. SCHACHT AT THE HAGUE

The Hague, Jan. 13 (AP)—Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, president of the Reichsbank, arrived here today from Berlin to join the German delegation in deliberations incident to arranging adoption of the Young reparations plan.

There were three meetings of the committee of bankers which drew up the statutes for the International Bank, of the inviting powers and Germany with reference to military sanctions or guarantees of German payments, and of the committee handling the Eastern rep.

Melvin A. Traylor of Chicago and Jackson E. Reynolds of New York submitted the names of five Americans as suitable for the presidency of the International Bank. Neither would give any indication as to identity of the men.

Mr. Reynolds told his French colleague that he had brought back full American subscription to the capital of the new international institution.

Friends of Tunney were told by the press that the fight was the largest of its kind ever revealed by the X-ray. The suggestion that Tunney's ailment is an indirect result of the stunning blow he delivered by Jack Dempsey in Philadelphia and Chicago were discounted by the doctors. One of them said faintly that Tunney's condition was the result of a long string of encounters.

Firebug on Parole Returns to Norfolk

Orange, Jan. 12 (AP)—Leo Wilbur, on parole from Norfolk prison camp, where he served three years for arson, was returned to the camp today after confessing, he said, that he set fire to the leechhouse at the Norfolk Penitentiary.

He had been imprisoned for burning the house of George L. Hill in this town. Eventually he will be brought back here to face a charge of burning the leechhouse.

Somerville Mayor an Elk

In the presence of many members of the order, Mayor John J. Murphy of Somerville was made a member of the Elk at a special session of the Somerville lodge at their lodge room, Central st., Somerville.

Gladys Parks Goes on Trial for Life

Camden, N. J., Jan. 13 (AP)—The case of Gladys Mary Parks, former cabaret entertainer and saleswoman, charged with the murder of her wards Dorothy and Timothy Rogers, aged four and two respectively, was on the docket of the Supreme Court today for trial before Justice Frank T. Lloyd.

Finds Editors' Motives

Interesting Reading

Editor Boston American:
Before the Boston Authors' Club, a veteran editor of a daily newspaper said recently, "I have kept a motto: 'The Lord Will Provide'—over my desk, for when there is a scarcity of ad sales and presses are waiting every editor wants a grain of comfort staring him in the face. To look at that motto always gave me a new grip upon life."
Horace Greeley is reported to have had this motto over his desk: "Temper, Pugnacity, Time." Another editor of a country paper had "Push, Pull,"

Praises Object of

Church Entertainments

Editor Boston American:
A preacher from Cleveland in St. John's Chapel last week, rapped modern churches for giving entertainments to improve religious conditions. He thought that churches were poor competitors of the theater in giving shows and had better stick to their lairs.
The theater can only furnish the best entertainment, because it knows how to please the public. The modern church cannot do that even upon the score of giving plays from the old dramatics.

Churches that are losing their theological hearings in these days seem to me to be scattering their strength by trying to do too many things to win the crowds.

The church that helps a person to be happy and someone his or her way, is doing as much as we can be expected of. It serves generous support and will get it eventually.

Spinners Get Word

of Praise at Last

Editor Boston American:
Don't be guilty of saying anything against spinners. They are getting to be the rarest of globes. Their number increased before and during the World War, according to Dr. R. R. Keen of London, a noted speaker on social reform. "They are the backbone of all movements for the betterment of the race, the amelioration of criminal law and general human advancement."

He adds in conclusion: "They have devoted to humanitarian projects, the energy which otherwise would have been expended in keeping house and washing dishes."

Hilda Blumpf, who did heroic work at Kijiji, Africa, lived there for years in a hut, trying to reform cannibals in that locality. They liked her, but her remedies of another tribe, jealous of what she did for them, murdered her husband and murdered her. She was 65 years young. She was only a few months ago, a heroic spinner.

Women Teachers

for Women Students

Editor Boston American:
Many women interested in the progress of education among women, notice with great satisfaction that the Connecticut League for Women has now for the first time in its history a woman president, Dr. Katherine Blunt, Wellesley College has a woman president and Mr. Holbrook, New York, has a woman president. Now let us see that change made in Smith College and Wellesley. Women must educate women and women judges must judge women. Then and not until then will women get their deserts.

Lack of Sewer Menaces

Health of Children

Editor Boston American:
Will your paper intercede in behalf of the residents of West Roxbury, living on Washington st., adjoining Cowing and Swallow st., who want a sewer installed into the locality? We have pleaded for this several times. We were told that we voted for a certain candidate that we would get it.
All this has fallen flat. We have little children here, whose lives are endangered by the lack of a sewer. We believe that instead of having a Greater Boston, we should first have sewers put in for the health of the community. The State board of health endorses it.

Short Sleeves Still

Illegal in Bay State

Editor Boston American:
The other day in looking over a book, I found this law of 1852 which has never been revoked: "Hereafter no garment shall be made with short sleeves, whereby the nakedness of the arm may be discovered in the wearing thereof, and such as have garments already made with short sleeves, shall not hereafter wear the same unless they cover their arms to wrist with linen or otherwise."
"Hereafter no person whatever shall make any garment for women with sleeves more than half an ell wide in the widest part thereof and proportionate for bigger or smaller persons."
Say, what old fogies they were in those days! The idea of men legislating about the make of women's sleeves. Nutsy, weren't they? I should say so. Why don't they revoke this law? No man would dare to enforce it now.

the nakedness of the arm may be discovered in the wearing thereof, and such as have garments already made with short sleeves, shall not hereafter wear the same unless they cover their arms to wrist with linen or otherwise."
"Hereafter no person whatever shall make any garment for women with sleeves more than half an ell wide in the widest part thereof and proportionate for bigger or smaller persons."
Say, what old fogies they were in those days! The idea of men legislating about the make of women's sleeves. Nutsy, weren't they? I should say so. Why don't they revoke this law? No man would dare to enforce it now.

Advocates Silence

on Political Talk

Editor Boston American:

"When you hear a man talking about himself, he has little on his mind." This is what Congressman R. G. Lowrey of Mississippi said in Boston last week in speaking about the support of education in the Southland.
I believe that this saying ought to be nailed in the conspicuous place in the State House, the City Hall and Boston's Twentieth Century Club.

Political speeches are weighed down with this sort of talk. I think that angels must smile when we hear people talking about themselves, when addressing their own people. They all seek the front page of the newspaper. They spatter the most outlandish and untrue statements and get sufficient publicity by a book. They have then attained the zenith of their ambition.

Signers of Declaration

Should Be Honored

Editor Boston American:

In addition to the many suggestions being offered for the observance of the Tercentenary this year, I would like to place this before your readers: Let us have a memorial in Faneuil Hall to honor the memories of the signers of the Declaration of Independence. Those who signed this document signed it almost literally with ropes around their necks, it being generally supposed they would, if unsuccessful, be hung as rebels.
When Charles Carroll signed it someone said: "You'll get clear, there are several of that name; they will not know which to take."
He at once replied, "Not so," and added after his name, "of Carrollton." For the course these signers should not be allowed to pass without some recognition this particular year.

Passing of Saloon

Editor Boston American:

Once in a while, I get sore over the State. At times I wonder what they want and are not afraid to make it evident. On the other hand, I know what I want. So there it is.
I have seen enough of licensed liquor in the past. Many of us are a great deal better without it. It brought sorrow, misery, degradation to my boyhood home and I saw our house taken over and we children had to shift for ourselves. My mother died in the meantime. All this on account of booze. I am not moralistic about prohibition, but I am convinced that we are all wiser today when we belong to the "Dry."

Remember the excellent

carnities in your paper of years ago when you showed up the evil influences of liquor. I cut them all out at the time and pasted them in a book. I look at this collection today. They did good to my day and they are doing good to me today. I'm deep drinking the word. I cannot help it on account of the past.

THOUGHT AND RULE

To finesse, or not to finesse; or whether to take a single or a double finesse, depends upon the situation presented and not upon the "sayso" of any mechanical rule of play. South's procedure with his hand requires the application of thought rather than of rule to its play.

Auction: The Auction bidding: North, two Hearts; South, one Heart; North, two Hearts; all pass follows obvious conventional lines.

Contract: The only difference between the Auction and Contract bidding is that in Contract, North bids three Hearts and South, four Hearts, carrying the bidding to its logical and necessary Contract conclusion.

SALENT POINTS OF PLAY

West opens the King of Diamonds. With the exposure of Dummy and the disclosure therein of three Diamonds to the Queen, West avoids taking up the Queen, shifts to the Jack of Spades to drive out, if possible, one of Dummy's Spade entries.

West then leads the fourth stopper, the King of Clubs, and South stops to consider how best to play the hand. His sure and probable tricks count considerably short of

Two diamonds for a Spade discard and win one of his two Club finesses. With favorable breaks, he should make five heart tricks, two Spade tricks, one diamond trick and two Clubs, sufficient for game. So South ought to lead the Spade. But East leads the King of Hearts, intending to finesse the Jack on the next lead. BUT, the Ten of Hearts dropped by West on the lead of the King disclosed one of two possible situations. West either holds the Queen of Hearts or more than one. If he holds the Queen, the play of the Ace will bring in five heart tricks; if West holds more, then East holds the Q and in which event a heart trick must be lost regardless of whether South finesses the Jack or goes up.

ing. South goes up with his Ace, dropping West's Queen, and follows with his Jack to take out East's last card. The master plays the remaining Diamond to keep the Queen in Dummy for a discard.

West has no option here but to follow with his Ace and give South a discard by the lead of another spade. South, in the Dummy with the Ace of Spades, plays the good Diamond of Diamonds, discarding his Ace of Clubs.

His next lead is a small Club towards the Ace-Queen-Ten to finesse the Queen. Had South another entry in Dummy, his play would be different.

South and subsequently the Queen. But with no further entry he must reduce his chance of loss by but a small amount, that at the Queen.

It is no wonder that corned beef has become one of the most popular meats on the affections of those who love good food. Corned beef and cabbage are served in many homes, and in which their kinds are perfect.

Following the advances in the food canning industry, corned beef in transporting. Today the finest corned beef is packed in cans and put into cans, then shipped all over the world. The corned beef in the pieces used are of fine quality, and all excess fat, pickle and bones are removed. The corned beef in the can of corned beef contains no salt, and it is very tender. The corned beef will serve as many people as you wish. It must be bought at a butcher's.

Of course you know that the corned beef is made from meat that is in the days when our country was young it was thought to be poison. The tomato belongs to the same family as the corned beef and this reason was excused as unfit for food.

The first person who closed his eyes and shouted "Here goes!" may have wanted to rattle himself from the earth. But he must have been a brave man, for he was else much relieved, for after he had said "Here goes!" he was still alive! That unknown person was the first to eat corned beef and tomato, since the tomato is one of our most important and esteemed vegetables.

Probably one of the most delicious meals that can be made is the corned beef and tomato. It is just what you need when you are tired of butter and just a little sugar.

Some people like to poach half a dozen eggs just before the hash is served.

Hack Wilson Wants Ring War With 'The Great' Shires

$15,000 PRIZE ATTRACTS CUB STAR

CHICAGO, Jan. 13 (AP)—His pride hurt by some remarks made by Charles Arthur (The Great) Shires, and his imagination troubled by things Promoter Muller keeps saying about $15,000 for a fight, Lewis (Hack) Wilson is again aroused.

The Dempsey of the doghouse has made his reply to Shires' assertion at a press conference last night, that "I didn't want Spohrer, I wanted Wilson."

"I want Shires just twice as bad as he wants me," Wilson said in breaking his long silence at his home at Marlborough, Va. He added to what he considered a biting remark by Shires, Wilson has had another offer from Promoter Muller, asking him to meet Shires at White City Arena for $15,000.

Shires was all wound up to rebuke the fast-talking business man but his triumph over bald-headed Al Spohrer, Boston Braves catcher, and some offers from here and there, have served to whet his desire for more glory, money and publicity.

Among the reported offers was one from the Pacific Coast with a bout with Walter "Duster" Maita, former Cleveland pitcher, and the first to nominate himself as "The Great."

Wilson said he would come to Chicago within 10 days to seek permission from William L. Veech, president of the Cubs, to fight the great one for the honor of the National League—and $15,000.

Conqueror of Shires Battles on Thursday

Chicago, Jan. 13 (AP)—George (Supercat) Traffon, one and only conqueror of the Great Shires, will resume work on his boxing career Thursday night at the Jai Alai Forum, Thursday night.

He will meet Rudy Hoffman in a four-round bout.

ZERAMBY IN N. Y. BOUT

Joe Zeremby, Lynn lightweight star, will make his New York bow on Friday night when he clashes with Herman Perlick of Kalamazoo, Mich., in a 10-round bout at the New York Garden.

The contest is the semifinal to the finals between Tony Canzoneri and Jack Berg. Zeremby's opponent is one of the famous Perlick twins.

The other twin, Henry, will collide with Eduardo Corti of the Argentine in a semifinal. Corti has been the better of the two and has clashed with Sammy Mandel and other leading lightweights. Zeremby is training for the bout at Jim Folsom's gym under the direction of Al Lacy. He will leave for New York Thursday night.

A win for Zeremby may lead to a match between him and Al Singer.

Tilden Defeats Irish Net Star

Maloney Training Hard for Emanuel

REALIZING that he will be pitted against one of the cleverest big men in the ring today, Jimmy Maloney, South Boston heavyweight, has started jimmey training for his bout with Armand Emanuel, Pacific coast heavyweight, at the Boston Garden January 24.

With Jack Dorval, Tom Kirby and a host of lesser lights boxing with him in his daily training sessions, Maloney expects to be in the best form in many months, when he steps into the ring against Emanuel.

Ever since Emanuel, who is only 21 years old, first invaded the ring he has been regarded as a heavyweight edition of Jack Britton. He depends upon his left hand to win.

Although he also packs a solid thump with his right, Emanuel first came into prominence in this city when he won the national 15-pound championship in 1924.

This was against Jack Gagne and the Californian had little trouble in winning. Ever since that bout, Hub fans have eagerly anticipated his meeting Maloney and it is expected that will prove one of the best draws of the entire season.

Edith Mack, Garden matchmaker, is planning to support this heavyweight contest with one of the outstanding preliminary cards of the season.

GARDEN LIES UP BALL PARKS

New York, Jan. 13—William F. Carey, president of the Madison St. Garden Corporation, announced that he had secured the Yankee Stadium and Polo Grounds for boxing purposes during the summer season.

Carey also said the Garden was given an option on both stadiums for the 1931 season as well.

The Garden's action in acquiring both baseball parks gives it a virtual monopoly on the big outdoor battles of the coming season and the Garden's action in acquiring both baseball parks gives it a virtual monopoly on the big outdoor battles of the coming season.

PENN FIVE ON WAY TO TITLE

New York, Jan. 13—Pennsylvania's Flying Quakers appear to be on the way to their third baseball title.

After beating Yale by a four-point margin in its first game a week ago, Penn crushed Dartmouth's up-to-date sophomore array at Philadelphia 32 to 24 and assumed league leadership with two victories and no defeats.

Princeton, by downing Cornell at Princeton 28 to 15, moved to a point just behind the Quakers with one triumph and no defeats.

The Memorial team is not as powerful in the senior event as in the other sections, but there are enough place winners in the top class to bring up the total.

Mechanic Arts is powerful in the middle division, Charles Ryan in the dash, Flaherty in the hurdles, Johnson in the 220 and Tom Ryan in the 400 are the best performers of the Athletic group.

Two Hub School Track Meets at Armory

MECHANIC Arts meets Memorial, and Jamaica Plain clashes with Charlestown today in the Hub school track meets at the East Armory.

Memorial came through strongly in the track events of its triangular meet last week. The Memorial junior and intermediate divisions are strong, and give the team an edge in the track events at least.

Princeton, by downing Cornell at Princeton 28 to 15, moved to a point just behind the Quakers with one triumph and no defeats.

CANZONERI AND BERG TO MEET

New York, Jan. 13—Tony Canzoneri and Jack (Kid) Berg will meet in a 10-round bout on Friday night.

Canzoneri and Berg are two of Sammy Mandel's leading challengers for the 135-pound crown.

Mary Carlin, Jersey City lightweight, meets Sammy Dorfman of New York in the semi-final, while Herman Perlick, Kalamazoo, Mich., featherweight, tangles with Jake Zeramby, Boston southpaw, in the first 10-rounder.

Al Singer, Bronx lightweight 160, comes back to the wars in a 10-round bout against George Day, New Haven, Ct., at the St. Nicholas Arena tomorrow night.

At Jack Dempsey's Chicago Coliseum, a light heavyweight battle between Les Lunkin, Anderson, Wash., and James J. Braddock of Jersey City will be the feature attraction Friday.

To Meet Milton Five

The Lexington high school boys' basketball five will meet the Milton high school quintet in the latter's gymnasium, tomorrow afternoon.

Again Spit is a horrid word, but it is worse on the end of your cigar

... the war against Spitting is a crusade of decency ... join it. Smoke CERTIFIED CREMO!

The strong arm of the law halts the spitter whose vile and vicious habit menaces his fellow citizens. But for every spitter caught hundreds escape—hundreds who still work in filthy shops rolling cigars with dirty fingers and spitting on the ends!

Certified Cremo protects you against this abomination! Every tobacco leaf entering the clean, sunny Certified Cremo factories is scientifically treated by methods developed by the United States Government during the war. And its purity is safeguarded along every step of the way by amazing inventions that foil, wrap and tip the cigars without the possibility of spit!

Try a Certified Cremo—see how wonderfully good it is! Made of the choicest, tenderest leaves that the crop affords, we claim Certified Cremo's quality is tastier than that of any other cigar. Don't let its 5c price stand in your way. Certified Cremo is the kind of cigar your physician has in mind when he recommends a mild smoke in place of heavy brands.

Crush-proof ... immaculate ... foil-wrapped ... Certified Cremo is the kind of cigar the late Vice-President Marshall undoubtedly had in mind when he said, "What this country needs is a good 5c cigar!"

EDICATION IS BIG EVENT AT AIRPORT

By GEORGE HANBLIN

Despite the bad weather, East Coast Aircraft Corp's open house was well attended all during the day, and when the official closing time came, there were so many visitors in the building that the doors couldn't be closed for another hour.

Yes, verily, East Coast's building is well dedicated, and if the well wishes Fred Ames and Frank LeMan received on toward the success of the company, we were sure that the curfew will go across one hundred per cent.

The audience's guests started to arrive early in the morning when Gordon Chandler, dropped down from Concord, in a worn blazer, the apologies of Roy Fox for not being able to attend because of the serious illness of his sister. Chandler represented the New Hampshire Aviation Company in a post style, however.

Then Eric Wood, head of record finding fame between Boston and New York, and Edna and Gohman, came up in a Whitehead motorboat, closely followed by the Wright Aircraft Company's Ford tri-motor with George Chaplin, at the pilot's controls, and R. M. White as copilot. Guy E. Vaughn, vice-president of Wright, and Mrs. Vaughn, B. F. Leighton, director of sales, and Mrs. Leighton; and J. M. Curran, service manager and his wife, completed the Wright delegation in the big Ford.

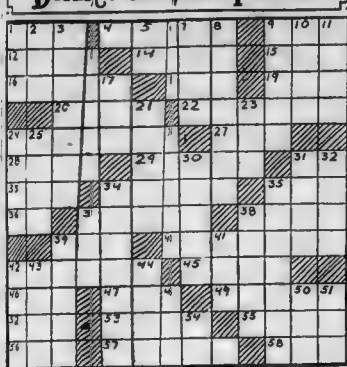

The local companies were represented by C. W. Evin, Harry Campbell, Bob Fouts and Percy Spencer, of Curtiss-Wright; Conner Snow and Johnny Hauever of Skyways, Ed Kadach of Old Colony Aviation, Robert O'Brien, Federal inspector Jack Moore, Mel Cummings, flight surgeon of the army, "Bugs" Raymond and "Trix" his wife, Airport Super Edson, et al.

Fred Ames, president of East Coast, was treasurer, stepping into the role with all the nonchalance of one who is a partner at the air.

Joseph A. Conry, newly appointed traffic commissioner, represented the mayor, and spoke at length on the proposed developments in the airport, and the pioneering done by the Ames family, both in the Union Pacific railroad and now in aviation. Edna Edson, next on the list, and spoke briefly about the advance Ames' machine in the field of commercial aviation.

Out remark made by Edson was, "apparently by everyone present. He said, 'Boston Airport's first commercial hanger was built by Fred Ames, and there the world. But it won't be there very long.'

SEEK DEAD AS STORMS RAGE IN FAR WEST

San Francisco, Jan. 13 (AP)—Winter swooped down upon the far West during the week-end, leaving in its wake today seven persons dead, four critically hurt, several missing and hundreds marooned by snow.

Bitter cold accompanied for three of the deaths—two in Arizona and one in Washington. Heavy snow fell in many places in California. Fresno received its first appreciable snow in 25 years, and San Francisco its first measurable fall in eight years.

In Arizona, Timothy Kirkpatrick, 51, stage company manager, P. Jerome, and David King, 32, truck driver, were found frozen to death three miles from their stalled automobile near the summit of Death Mountain of the Jerome-Prescott highway. Several other persons were reported missing.

Washington counted two fatalities in Seattle. Ray Whitman, 15, was killed and six companions injured, four critically, in a collision between their bobbed and an automobile. Sixteen young people were reported on the road and most of them suffered injury.

At Walla Walla the body of a middle-aged unidentified man, presumably frozen to death, was found in a Snake river cabin. California likewise reported two fatalities.

Hiram Shearer, 72, city marshal of Nevada City, hit by a sled, died from a fractured skull received directing traffic. In Los Angeles, Morris Feldman, his vision obscured by rain, drove his automobile in front of a Pacific electric train on Foothill Blvd. and was killed.

In the Sierra foothills, 300 automobiles were abandoned between San Andreas and Angels Camp, while their occupants, estimated to number in excess of 1000, sought refuge from the falling snow and bitter wind in farmhouses in various communities.

Harkness Gifts Now Nearly $100,000,000

New York, Jan. 13 (AP)—Benefactions of Edward Stephen Harkness of this city are estimated to total close to $100,000,000. They have been made from the $50,000,000 left him by his mother and the fortune which he previously inherited from his father.

His latest gift is to the residential house plan at Yale. President James Rowland Angell, in making the announcement of the gift, did not make public the amount, but the New Haven Journal-Courier said today that it had learned on reliable authority it was between $15,000,000 and $20,000,000.

Five new quadrangles will be built and six existing groups reconditioned with the funds. Under the house plan from 200 to 250 students will live together under the leadership of a member of the faculty. It is believed the new system will be inaugurated in the fall of 1932.

The Harkness gift, it is understood, also provides for an endowment fund to be used as salaries for residential heads and for the establishment of the tutorial system of teaching. This latter method is novel in American colleges and amounts to group discussions on academic subjects.

A Wonderful Love Story by Author of 'Hollywood Girl,' 'Easy'

What Has Happened Before Arrived with happiness, love and with Tom Nicholson, Lovejoy Mama are married. Tom's salary is small. They take a day flat. For two years before the marriage Tom had been jealous of Steve Ogleby, rich and handsome bachelor.
Now Go On With the Story

CHAPTER 3
LOVEJOY spent the whole morning of Christmas Eve sitting down with Norrie Shane.

Norrie was a nurse who lived in the flat above Aunt Em's flat, and she and Lovejoy had been great friends ever since Lovejoy could remember.

Norrie shared the flat with three other nurses.

The three other nurses were trained ones, who wore white professional looking uniforms and went out on all sorts of difficult and important cases.

But Norrie never finished her training at Mercy Hospital.
She had taken some kind of a special course in caring for children, however, and she was what is known as "a trained child's nurse."

Norrie certainly had intended Norrie for a mother. She adored little children, and children instinctively trusted her and liked her.

But as far as Lovejoy knew, no man ever had cared enough for Norrie to ask her to marry him,
and give him his children.

She was not the sort of a girl who instantly attracts men. She was tall and slender, but she had very little grace and style. There was nothing of the flirt and stren about her.

Her brown eyes were direct and even. Her mouse-colored hair was brushed straight back into a flat top at the back of her head. She had no beauty. None at all.

But she was sweet, and somehow she looked as sweet as the was-which is a gift in itself.

She was shopping on this cold clear morning for little presents for the crippled children at Mercy Hospital.

"I want to buy four presents.
One of them for you, and I don't want you to see it. So let's see said Lovejoy, when the two of them had reached the crowded store."

She looked down at the little silver wrist-watch that she wore. "It's new," she added. "Let's meet each other at noon, and have lunch at 'Tingy's.'"

"Tingy's" was a tear-room at the corner of Fourth and State streets.
It was a little place that made a specialty of serving up "dime dishes," and it was very popular.

When Lovejoy opened his door at ten minutes before twelve, he found it was packed with people.
There was a line of people waiting for the door, waiting to be seated.

Not much chance of getting away on her own, a woman came to Lovejoy's aid. And swinging under the found her way to the face with Steve Ogleby.

Steve picked it up, feeling it with his finger. "It's broken—whatever it was,"
he said. "It's a fact very true, but my fault. You'll have to let me take it home and have it mended."

"I enjoy about her head,"
he said. "Indeed," she said firmly,
and took the package from him.

She checked were flushed, and above that soft pinkness her gray eyes were shiny with excitement.

"It always is exciting for a woman to meet a man who is in love with her," even if she is a happily married woman.

And Lovejoy was at one glance Steve Ogleby still was in love with her. He was stopped short before it reached his eyes.

There were grave and watchful,
and they seemed to drink with it a hungry longing, as she looked at him.

"He still likes me," she said to herself with satisfaction.
She should have been sorry that she still still bring that look of burnt and longing into his face with its keen blue eyes, its blunt nose and tanned freckled skin.

But she wasn't sorry. She was glad to have her sense of power, too.

CARDINAL WARMS OF FORCING VIRTUE BY LAW

Bay State and R. I. Join in War on Parrot's Disease

Cardinal O'Connell Delivering Address at Holy Name Ceremony

ADDRESS HOLY NAME

Repiles to Remark of Professor Who Said Religion Was Failing

Prohibition and fanaticism who falsely color a "human experiment" with "divine sanction," were applied denounced by Cardinal O'Connell in an address before 3500 members of the Holy Name Society at union services in the Cathedral of the Holy Cross.

While avoiding direct mention of the 18th Amendment, the Cardinal advised a vigorous resistance against a "fraudulent and futile attempt to compel virtue by statute."

Although Christ gave a commu-
sion to His Church to influence by word and example, in gentleness
and moderation, the Cardinal
said, "it is not His claim to set in His name demanding a most cruel punishment for offenses which are not those forbidden by God's law, but against a doubtful human ordinance."

The Cardinal's views on the prohibition question were revealed during his reply to the recent assertions of a prominent advocate that religion is on the decline in the United States.

"When the churches are turned into political factories," he said,
"when instead of saving souls by gentle patience and sincere assertions of modernism in the face of human life, all their energy and effort are turned violently and violently into a frantic and futile effort to compel virtue by statute, and enforce as it were a divine command, that which at best is a human experiment, what they have embittered even their friends by their fanaticism, well,
these churches will not only be
empty but deserted."

"That which clearly Christ proclaimed and did in His daily life denounced as accused, not by the moral of atheism, but by some of those who pretend to interpret His teaching."

"Every year I look forward with anticipation to the annual address of the Holy Name Society, for it is a divine command, that which at best is a human experiment, what
they have embittered even their
friends by their fanaticism, well,
these churches will not only be
empty but deserted."

While avoiding direct mention
of the 18th Amendment, the Cardinal
advised a vigorous resistance
against a "fraudulent and futile attempt to compel virtue by statute."

Although Christ gave a commu-
sion to His Church to influence by
word and example, in gentleness
and moderation, the Cardinal
said, "it is not His claim to set
in His name demanding a most
cruel punishment for offenses
which are not those forbidden by

5000 HORSEPOWER ENGINES ARE ORDERED

Williamsport, Pa., Jan. 12.—Looming Manufacturing Company has received an order for 5000 horsepower engines, the largest single order for this type of engine ever placed.

The contract was signed by the Stinson Aircraft Corporation of Wayne, Mich., and calls for delivery of the engines by May 1.

The engines are single, radial, air-cooled, and will be used in the Stinson aircraft.

This marks the official advent of the Looming company, which has been working in the engine business for two years and received the contract on its product last fall.

A new design has recently been built at the Looming factory to be used in the production of aviation engines. The tooling up of this plant is well advanced, and it is expected that Looming will be producing engines in the near future.

Output of Steels Well Maintained
Youngstown, O., Jan. 12.—Midwest Independent iron and steel companies are able to maintain production gains of recent weeks and add to output, according to schedule for second week in January.

This is due primarily to the release of new business and increased volume from the automobile industry.

As Roads Make More Money Public Must Benefit in Service and Rates

No. 1

THE most important act of the Federal Government in a long time is the report of the Interstate Commerce Commission recommending certain railroad consolidations.

We have too many separate railroads in the country, with expensive and unnecessary duplication of high officials, terminals and services. A weak line that serves its community badly can be made strong by adoption into the family of a powerful and successful system.

NOBODY who has the interest of the country at heart can oppose wise railroad mergers. We do not want to hang on to a more expensive way of producing transportation service any more than we want to hang on to a more expensive way of producing motor cars or houses.

What we DO want from Congress and the Interstate Commerce Commission, charged with regulating the railroads, is to be assured that the public shall get its full share of the advantages and economies of these new business combinations.

THIS means that as the railroads make more money the public must get better service at lower rates. Law and regulation should be devoted to making these public benefits automatic. If Congress will act in this direction the public will be served; it will not be served by foolish and unprofitable opposition to mergers which are inevitable since they promise economy and progress.

THIS, incidentally, is simply a restatement of the long-established policy of the Hearst papers with respect to business combinations and consolidations.

The merger principle in railroad organization must be carried through without hesitation or delay. Whether the Interstate Commerce Commission was wise in the specific twenty-one consolidation groups it recommends, is another matter.

Airships

They May Worry Us Some Day

(Copyright, 1929)

GENERAL MITCHELL, greatest flying officer this country had in the big war, and now out of the army because he told more truth than was acceptable to the powers that sell ships to the navy, writes this: "We have in front of our eyes the Zeppelin flying around the world, airplanes flying 6000 miles without landing, from the Pacific Coast to the Atlantic and back again, these being crude, primitive aircraft. What we should have is a joint commission of the Senate and the House of Representatives to investigate the whole question of national defense.

"That would lead to a single department of national defense and a separate department of air, land, water and munitions under it."

Every word TRUE. Fortunately the man in the White House is an able engineer, who can test for himself the value of various weapons, and will know how to decide.

Great Britain has a Secretary for Air. We shall have ours, some day. To make the air fleet subordinate to the floating navy or the marching army is like making taxicabs subordinate to hansom cabs, and cannon subordinate to bows and arrows.

History Repeats Itself

The Trimmings Are New

(Copyright, 1929)

BARRED for years from advertising columns of reputable publications, quack doctors and purveyors of fake healing devices are turning to the radio. Health Commissioner Wynne, of New York, asks the Federal Radio Commission in Washington to enforce the same advertising standards on the air as in the papers.

"Old, exploded treatments are being revived," he says, either by men who formerly worked them or by others who have inherited their apparatus and sales talk. Gullible ladies and gentlemen of the radio audience pay hundreds of dollars for mechanical and electrical appliances that are worse than useless. Most dangerous of all, they often refuse to call a physician until it is too late.

History repeats itself as usual, but with modern trimmings. Fake cures attract millions, even among the "educated." Witchcraft still rides the air, on short waves now instead of on a broomstick.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. MCINTYRE

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—Diary of a modern Pagan: Early bedtime and playing with my dog and out one of his teeth with a towel and frightened to tell my wife. A gentleman who confides in his own financial wisdom and the year 1929 will be one of great prosperity.

But to the Lulu-Reynolds restaurant and came upon Chamberlain Dobbie whom I met at the table in front of the Cafe de Paris eight years ago. And who told me he was a millionaire. He was cordial but after slipping three dollars to go home in a red wheelbarrow. After dusk did on my civit coat great coat and walked far into the park in the moonshine, thinking of this, that and the other. Then home in great content and found a merry gathering and Courtney Ryley Cooper told hilarious stories of his days as Buffalo Bill's press agent.

A young artist whose dream of becoming a great portrait painter ended as many dreams do, took a temporary job designing show cards for a movie house. "I was trying to get up enough courage to commit suicide," he said. He is now averaging $300 a week.

And about town with button shoes and all.

A New York hospital recently released a patient of a little prominence suffering from an odd stomach complaint that baffled diagnosticians. He finally confessed that for years he had an almost uncontrollable taste for writing. Several times a day, and often as often as he was in bed, he would take his pen in his mouth and transfer it to the tip of his nose. He developed a serious poisoning.

Real estate values in a certain residential block in uptown New York have been almost completely destroyed by a plague of ants. A six months' insect warfare has failed to put them out. One four-story building was completely undermined and had to be condemned.

Speaking of strange appetites as we were a paragraph or so ago, a jolly jerk in a drug store near the Grand Central falls of a customer whose breakfast every morning is a dish of chocolate ice cream.

The most expensive engagement ring of the winter sold for $220,000. It was a 22-carat Assateague diamond set in platinum. And the ruby is now "the smart stone."

Broadway jazz parlor sign: "Music with heat. Come in and burn!"

As this, an hour, has been a column of silly observations, it will not be amiss to chronicle just among a high-flying bankrupt's assets were 342 live handkerchiefs, with cut-out monograms.

What's Wrong With This?

Several Things. But He is a Good Emperor

(Copyright, 1929)

HIS IMPERIAL MAJESTY THE MIKADO ON HIS FAVORITE HORSE

THIS is Hirohito, Emperor of Japan, out to review the maneuvers of his troops north of Tokio. The Emperor is on a horse raised in England, shipped to Japan for His Majesty's comfortable use, named in Japanese Hatsu-Yuki, meaning "White Snow." The Japanese always have poetical names for things.

An expert rider, asked "What is the matter with this picture?" might suggest one or two minor errors. The Emperor's knees are not close enough to the saddle for a good grip.

The toes are turned OUTWARD, which would bring the heels against the horse's side. Assuming that the Emperor rides with spurs, the poor "White Snow" would be pricked unnecessarily.

The Emperor seems to be holding his reins, snaffle and curb not quite according to rule; the snaffle rein seems to be outside of the little finger, instead of being on either side of the ring finger.

These are mistakes that the former German Emperor would not make.

And that former Teutonic Emperor, on HIS war horse, would look a good deal more savage, ferocious and warlike than does the gentle Hirohito in this picture.

However, Hirohito has ONE big advantage. He is safe on a safe horse, and what's more, he is SAFE ON HIS THRONE.

His Government knew enough to stay out of the big war, merely collecting the things that were needed, close at hand.

And it knew enough, when it got ready for war to take on Russia, and its incompetent collection of Grand Dukes with the feeble Czar at the head.

You don't notice Japan taking on Russia at present. They know that it is a DIFFERENT Russia.

Japan has another great advantage.

This Emperor Hirohito is a thoughtful young man, and while he is taught by tradition to believe that he is related by birth to the sun and moon, a natural born ruler of the whole universe, he doesn't brag about that in dealing with Western nations.

He just attends to business. FORTUNATE JAPAN, wise Hirohito.

H. G. Wells Writes on "The Science of Life"

In Collaboration With Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells

IN some forms the tail of the "foot" carries a hard chitinous plate, so arranged that when the animal retreats into its shell the plate closes the opening of the foot like a lid; in some, such as the powerful aquatic nautilus, the shell is twisted at an angle, so that it forms a flat cone under which the animal covers; in some, such as the sea hare, it is of no use as a protection. In the garden snail and slug, represented by a mere thin plate of chitin embedded in the flesh of the back; in many garden slugs there are only a few tiny granules in this situation, and finally in some sea-slugs the shell is absent altogether.

Many gastropods are carnivorous, and so the class falls below the moral level of the progressive lamellibranchs.

The whelk, for example, bores through the shells of oysters or periwinkles and sucks out their soft bodies. The majority, however, feed on plants.

The garden snail and slug, rasping away the leaves of plants by means of their tongue, which are set with fine, serrated nodules to rasp, are a serious threat to the farmer's crops.

Many gastropods are parasitic—instead of crawling slowly over the sea-bottom they creep over the shells of other mollusks, the foot is expanded into a transparent undulating web by means of which the animal clings to the water.

The ordinary pond-snail can writhing, swimming just below the surface of the water. These aquatic gastropods develop a special purpose—detritus.

It would be much healthier if they took football away from the students and gave it to the police.

We saw all the big games in the East and enjoyed watching the ambulance crew adding up the numbers on the players' backs. After every game we became a charter member of a posto around the postoffice.

It seems to be an inherited obsession among college students that like body in the lamellibranch and a flat undulating web in the gastropod here grown forward to surround the mouth and is prolonged into flexible arms (cephalopods means head).

The majority of living cephalopods capture their prey—which consists chiefly of crustaceans and fish—by stinging and poisoning it.

The circle of writhing arms surrounding the mouth is provided with powerful suckers, by means of which they catch and hold their victims. Once captured, the prey is bitten by a pair of jaws, sharp and curved like an eagle's beak, and a digestive juice is pumped out into its body from the cap's mouth.

The juice paralyzes the victim very quickly, and then it dissolves and partly digests the flesh, the remaining soup being sucked back into the cap's mouth held close to the captured prey.

The octopuses live mainly on the bottom, lurking in caves and crevices, often building a shelter of stones, pebbles and falling on top of them like a parachute of serpents.

In the argonauts, which are closely related to the octopuses, the female carries a delicately built spiral shell, partly in order to protect her own body but chiefly as a sort of perambulator for carrying her eggs.

Both octopuses and argonauts have eight long tentacles. The tentacles and squids, however, have ten; they constitute the largest and most varied group of living cephalopods, and swim through the sea like fish propelling themselves either backward or forward by means of fin-like structures that run along the sides of their bodies.

Of the ten tentacles two are very long and are generally kept curled up out of the way, but they can be suddenly shot out to catch at victims; the remaining eight are shorter and are used to hold the prey more firmly once it has been caught.

Embedded in the flesh of the back of the squid is a shell of homogenous with the shells of snails; in some species the shell is a thin, horny "sac" and in others it is the white massive "cuttle-bone" familiar to canary owners.
